NOT TOO HIGH.

A Moderate Tariff That Give Permanent Protection Desired.

LYMAN J. GAGE AT CANTON.

President McKinley's Cabinet—A Steamer Sinks—Crew Lost.

TWO TRAMPS BURNED IN A BARN.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 28.—After a morning session devoted to minor matters, the National Association of Manufacturers yesterday took up the tariff.

The subject came before the members in the shape of a report of the special committee appointed yesterday. A discussion that lasted for some time followed the presentation of the report, and it was finally adopted by the convention after some few changes had been made in the verbiage. The report as presented was as follows:

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the National Association of Manufacturers that the tariff law should be revised at the earliest possible moment in order that uncertainty may be removed, confidence restored and business permitted to revive."

"Resolved, That rates of duty should be made as low as possible, consistent with adequate protection of our manufacturing and agricultural interests, and the labor they employ. The tariff should contain only specific duties or mixed ad valorem and specific duties."

"Resolved, That Congress should be invited to re-establish and extend the system of reciprocity, which may be employed to secure for us tariff favors in Latin-American and other markets in which we are the largest buyers, while Europe is the preferred seller solely because of the lower wage rates and the lower general costs of production in European countries."

The debate that followed hinged entirely on the words in the second paragraph of the resolution. "As low as possible," and the fight for the dropping out of those words was precipitated by Mr. Hamilton, of California. He felt that with these words remaining the resolution would not have the weight with the ways and means committee of Congress that it would otherwise have.

CALLED TO CANTON.

Lyman Gage on His Way to Answer a Summons From McKinley.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—Lyman J. Gage left last night for Canton, O. The Chicago financier, who has been offered the portfolio of the Treasury, went in answer to a telegram from President-elect McKinley asking him to come to Canton. Having made a diplomatic tender of the Secretaryship of the Treasury to the Chicagoan, Mr. McKinley naturally wishes to discuss with him matters of policy.

Mr. Gage left at 11:30 o'clock, and was due in Canton at 1:20 o'clock this afternoon.

"There is nothing to be said about my trip except that I am going down to Canton to have a talk with Major McKinley in response to an invitation from him," said Mr. Gage, just before leaving for Canton.

"The matter is still open and Major McKinley is still as free as one day after election to select any one he chooses for Secretary of the Treasury. He asked me to talk over matters with him; that's all. It is his duty to act cautiously and to convince himself he is not making a mistake."

"No, I will not talk about my views upon public subjects at this time."

ESCAPED DROWNING.

But Were Frozen to Death on A Barge.

Evansville, Jan. 28.—At Howell, three miles below this city last night the small Green river steamer Peanishaw, towing a pleasure barge and having on board a crew of thirteen men was cut down by the ice and sunk. Four of the crew, including Engineer Orr, escaped to the barge, which was cut loose from the sinking steamer. The heavy ice prevented their rescue until three of the men, including Engineer Orr, were frozen to death. The remainder of the crew of the ill-fated steamer are supposed to have been drowned.

Killed Louisville Drummer—Must Pay the Extreme Penalty.

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 28.—Colin Draughdrill has been convicted of the murder in the first degree for the killing of John Bates, the Louisville drummer, and will pay the extreme penalty. Sentence has been passed that he be hung on the 5th day of March next.

The Steamer Dauntless Said to Have Landed Her Cargo.

NEW YORK LEGISLATURE RESOLVES.

Key West, Jan. 28.—News from Weyler's advance columns tell of a brief but sharp fight near El Jobo, west of Guines, in which Weyler's vanguard was forced back.

A stronger column was pushed forward, and the insurgents driven back, and a hospital that they were guarding destroyed and all the wounded insurgents, twenty-three in number, two physicians and a female nurse barbarously killed.

This hospital was guarded by 200 insurgents under Capt. Luis Morenique, the men being too ill to be moved. The insurgents knew their danger, but they determined to sell their lives dearly in defense of their sick and wounded brothers in arms.

As one of Weyler's detachments came near the town, he having been informed of the wounded Cubans there, they were ambushed, and after half an hour's fighting were forced to retire, losing forty men and one Captain.

Re-enforcements arrived, and they came on an hour later, and two ambuscades were planned for them, and they fell into both, being exposed to a sharp enfilading fire from the Cuban sharpshooters, who were securely hidden behind the rocks along the road. The Spaniards were penned up and could not retreat nor advance. They fought desperately, but the odds were too great.

Finally the commanding officer was about showing the white flag when another detachment, attacked by the firing, came up and drove the insurgents' rear force off in confusion. The two combined forces then swept the field of all opposition, with a loss of nearly 100 men all told.

Smutting under their defeat, when they entered the town they set fire to all the dwellings, and the hospital building, a large two-story wooden structure, was soon in flames. A few of the least wounded men were rescued, but nearly half perished in the flames, though the Spaniards felt a little compassion on hearing the frantic appeals for aid of the tortured men and attempted to rescue them, but then it was too late. The physicians and nurses were severe and very outspoken in their condemnation of these acts, and the Spanish troops shot them down in cold blood, the officer reporting that it was an accident. The report made to Weyler was that a force of 500 insurgents had been dispersed with heavy loss to them. The news was brought to Havana by a trusty courier and reached here last night. It is stated that Gen. Garcia was informed of the horrible outrage, and he swore that Weyler should weep tears of blood if this kind of warfare was kept up. Weyler never ventures out now from the main body, and has a special body guard of 400 men.

Paducah will undoubtedly be a member of Central Base Ball League this year, with Evansville, Terre Haute and Washington, Ind., Cairo, Ill., and Nashville, Tenn., as companions.

The matter was virtually settled yesterday, and a meeting will be held at Evansville on February 7, to arrange details.

The promoters of Paducah's membership have secured more than ample backing, and say that they will have good base ball, or none at all.

The park will be ready by spring, but its location has not yet been fully decided upon.

In regard to the players, professionals will be employed, with the possible exception of two or three good local players, who have sustained splendid reputations in the past.

At 6 p. m. it was 5 above.

At 8 p. m. it was 6 above.

At 10 p. m. it was 7 above.

At midnight it was 3 below zero.

At 2 a. m. it was at zero.

At 4 a. m. it was 3 above.

At 6 a. m. at zero.

The thermometer was of course outside, and Mr. Mattison kept close watch on it, hence his figures are correct.

A great many people were convinced when they arose this morning that it was colder than yesterday, and it was quite a surprise to them, for last night about retiring time there were indications of a moderation.

Today it has been slightly warmer, and a slight thaw was noticeable.

Tedford McCarty and John Rogers Fight.

McCarty Was Stabbed and From Accounts May Die.

Tedford McCarty works on the farm of T. B. Walker, adjoining the home of John Rogers, both of near Rossington, this county. Sunday there were several visitors at Mr. Walker's, among them being Rogers, who quartered his horse in Walker's stable. According to reports McCarty placed his horse in the stable with Rogers' to make room for the horses of other visitors, and when Rogers discovered it he became very indignant and struck at McCarty, who knocked him down. Rogers said enough and McCarty started to attend to his feeding when Rogers stole up with a knife and signified his intention to kill McCarty, who ran, but was overtaken and stabbed in the left side, the blade penetrating the left lung.

It is said that traumatic pneumonia has set in from the wound and that his condition is serious.

Rogers mounted his horse and escaped, going towards Mayfield. He leaves behind a family.

The People's Street Railway is a most progressive institution. Yesterday an important meeting was held, and the directors decided to at once purchase a new boiler, and will probably procure a Heine, which costs $3500.

In addition to that it will in a short time begin sinking an artisan well to penetrate deep enough to obtain the kind of water they desire.

New equipments for six cars will forthwith be ordered, and as soon as the weather opens up the line will be extended out Madison from Twelfth to Fountain Avenue, thence to Oak Grove Cemetery. The line to Rowlandtown will also be straightened and go down Twelfth street to that suburb instead of by such a roundabout route.

It is also probable that the company will increase its capital stock and

The population of India is five times as dense as that of the United States. What must be the horrors of famine in such a population.

A REDUCTION of $20,000,000 in pensions by the Cleveland administration has kept that amount of money from circulating among the people.

The original painting of "Washington Crossing the Delaware" sold the other day for $16,000. The painting is said to be of a low order of art, but its historic value led to its high price.

The divided condition of democracy has resulted in some instances in holding up presidential nominations. A notable instance is that of a Kansas postmaster whom Senator Peffer is very anxious to have approved, and his colleague, Mr. Baker, equally anxious to defeat.

A BIG six-footer in New York a day or two since had a 6-year-old boy arrested on a warrant charging the midget with a "threat to do him bodily harm." The extreme littleness of humanity as exhibited in some specimens of it is almost enough to disgust a true man with life.

OUR business men are hopeful of an early improvement, and there is good ground for the faith that is in them. With the approach of spring there is always an improvement and the full restoration of business confidence cannot fail to have a decidedly beneficial effect on the business of the early spring. The outlook is bright.

MR. BRYAN dedicates his forthcoming book to Bland, Weaver and Teller, "the foremost champions of bimetallism in their respective parties." No one knows better than Mr. Bryan that so far from being a bimetallist Mr. Weaver has long been and still is a pronounced Greenbacker and that leaders of his party have recently denounced free silver as a humbug. Evidently Mr. Bryan is not above courting favor at the expense of candor.

THE chief good to come from the discussions of the Cuban question in the present congress is the information of the people on the subject in all its bearings. It has long since become evident that no action will be taken. The whole question will go over to the next administration and it is hoped the president and members will turn to and read anew the pronouncements of the Republican platform on the subject and then act as they have been instructed by the people to act in behalf of "Cuba Libre."

THERE has recently been a decided decline in the discount rate of the bank of England. Prior to Sept. 18-6, the rate of discount had been steadily 2 per cent. for more than 2½ years. At that time, probably influenced by the silver movement in America, it took a sudden bound upward and quickly reached 4 per cent. Recently a marked change has taken place which threatens quickly to reduce it to the old standard. Easter money in Europe means more American investments and easier money here. This will be a straw in the general combination of causes which are bringing better times.

THEY are yet in the world in this latter end of the 19th century many people who are wanting in that provident forethought which is the chief distinctive characteristic of enlightened peoples. It is on these as well as upon the extremely indigent that the miseries of a winter like this bear hardest. Basking in the sunshine of a mild and open winter, they have not prepared for the chill blasts that have suddenly fallen upon us and suffering is extreme. Far more suffering usually follows such extreme changes than accompany the long hard winter. There is abundant opportunity for the charitably disposed to do good.

SPEAKING of the outlook from the standpoint of a man whose large interests are of such a nature as entitles him to speak with some degree of certainty, George Gould says: "We have unquestionably seen the worst, and from this time improvement, albeit slow at first, will be conspicuous, and we may safely look forward to a long period of general activity and national prosperity. Liquidation has unquestionably run its full course as far as the security market is concerned. There may be one or two weak spots, one or two weeds to be pulled up, but on the whole, I think it is safe to say that improvement of no small caliber may reasonably be expected and anticipated."

SEANATOR SHERMAN has set at rest any question as to his willingness to head Mr. McKinley's cabinet and at the same time put a quietus on all speculations as to his feeling toward Mr. Hanna as his successor. In an interview he says: "My acceptance of the portfolio of Secretary of State was without any reservations or conditions. Gov. Bushnell has about six weeks yet before it will be necessary to appoint my successor in the Senate. There seems to be a general desire that Mr. Hanna should be selected for the seat, and while I have no assurance on that point, I believe Gov. Bushnell will appoint him." That Mr. Sherman not only has not entered an objection to Mr. Hanna, but that he actually favors him is sufficiently evident from the above.

In the course of his address to Kentucky Democrats, to which allusion was made in our dispatches a day or so since, Major P. P. Johnston, chairman of the State Silver Democratic Executive Committee, says: "The resolution passed by the Central Committee indicated a custom as old as the party, but it was not promulgated as a rule or as an absolute standard to govern you in your local affairs. Conditions are now exceptional and require different methods of treatment in different locations. You are expected to study the situation and do what is wise and best to unify and strengthen the Democratic party in your district." Leading gold standard Democrats think the manifesto will have no effect on the rank and file of the National Democracy in the coming county elections. It will evidently be the effort of the silver wing of the Democracy to bring back into the fold their "erring brothers," and if possible present a united front to the enemy next fall.

SENATOR SHERMAN has recently been accused by Democratic newspapers of having pursued a vacillating policy. No man in public life has been found more uniformly on the side of sound finance and stable, safe currency than John Sherman. His policy has changed somewhat at times with changing conditions. When a law he has advocated has accomplished its purpose, or ceases to be desirable, he has毫不犹豫地 voted for its repeal. Consistency such as these wisecracks would demand of Mr. Sherman is a consistency such as has never been shown by any truly great statesman. What may be right and proper today may be wrong tomorrow by reason of changed conditions. The man who, having taken a position, doggedly adheres to it without reference to the circumstances, prefers his own consistency to the public good and is in no sense a statesman. Senator Sherman is great enough to be inconsistent in the eyes of his enemies, if the people are better served by a change.

INCREASED CAPACITY. Owing to the large increase in circulation it has been impossible the Sun recently to appear in all sections of the city as early as is desirable to many of our patrons. We have been compelled to double our press capacity, and will within the course of a few days print our large edition in just half the time now required. Thanking our patrons for the liberal support extended we shall spare no effort to deserve it in future.

LONDON has long been the financial center of the world. Dowling street has been to the world what Wall street is to the United States. But the time is coming and probably before many years, when the scepter will pass to Wall street and America will set the pace for the world. She has been the greatest borrower thus far, but her immense natural resources have been largely developed, and are being developed more rapidly now than ever before. Her growth in wealth has been the marvel of the country. She has already stolen much of the prestige over which John Bull has been so puffed up and is destined to distance him in the race before long; that is, provided the people keep their heads as level as they have been during the last few months, and do not adopt any wildcat schemes of finance. The foreign exports of the United States last year exceeded $1,000,000,000 and they will continue to increase. We can not afford to jeopardize so great a future. We will let well enough alone.

PRESTON CLEVELAND is mighty careful about "entangling foreign alliances" when it is expected of him to extend a word of encouragement to a people who are writing in a death struggle for liberty, as the Cubans, or who are seeking admission into the Union, as the Hawaiians. He is mighty cautious not to do anything in contravention of any old, obsolete treaty, whose provisions are harsh and unreasonable, so far as this country is concerned, as that with England with reference to the building of war vessels on the lakes and that Clayton-Bulwer treaty with reference to the Nicaragua Canal. But he does not hesitate to conclude with England a treaty which, according to the statement of the Secretary of State, amounts to an "alliance," and which is so interpreted by the English press, no doubt inspired by English diplomats. Let the Senate of the United States be very sure they are not entering into an "entangling alliance" before they approve the proposed treaty.

PLATT ON THE SITUATION. In an address delivered at a banquet tendered him in New York Tuesday evening, Senator-elect Thomas C. Platt reviewed at length the business and political situation, and among other things truly said: "Sufficient time has passed since the November election to permit a close examination of its results. It cannot be said that they are wholly satisfactory. The bewildering program of legislation proposed by Mr. Bryan obtained so great a popular support as to forbid the idea that agitation in its favor will be abandoned, and our Democratic friends who, without giving unqualified adhesion to Republican principles, were nevertheless constrained by their convictions on the money question to support the Republican candidate, should give sober consideration to this fact."

It is not yet certain that any plan for the relief of the treasury can pass the senate as it will be constituted after the 4th of March. Capital will not invest, production will not increase, labor will not be adequately employed until laws are passed to insure the treasury against insolvency and to guarantee to the business interests of the country a safe and reasonably permanent basis on which to operate. If the changes in the composition of the senate now in progress fail to produce a majority that can hold together for the enactment of such legislation, we shall have the same fight out of which we have just come to make again four years from now under probably less favorable conditions.

The lesson which this possibility teaches to the sound money Democrats and the duty to enforce it upon them seems entirely clear. They can find no home in the Democratic party. Their presence there is not wanted, whereas with us it is held in just esteem. They must "come into the Republican party, exert their due influence upon its politics and accept their share of the responsibility for its work. And, without abandoning any vital principle, which they would not ask or expect, we must seek in all we do to hold their confidence and support.

The people do not want the Wilson bull patched up. They want it repealed, and in its place their plain demand, to which the election of two successive Republican majorities in the House of Representatives sufficiently testifies, is for the enactment of an intelligent and consistent tariff, based in every schedule upon the principle of preventing the foreign producer of goods that compete with American goods from wholesaling his wares in the American market at prices which compel the Americans to pay more for them than the foreign maker of such wares either to go out of business or reduce the wages he pays to labor.

NO MORE ARRESTS.

The Police Still Making Investigations, However.

A Prominent Doctor Talks—The House Woman's Trial.

No further arrests have been made in the criminal operation cases under investigation, but Marshal Collins is determined to stay the onward march of this enemy to society and bring to justice, if possible, the guilty.

There is now another case under advisement against Hannah House, and still another case against another colored woman.

A prominent doctor stated today in an interview with a reporter:

"People have no idea how much of this is going on. I venture to say that there is not a doctor in Paducah who does not find evidence of it every once and a while."

"Why don't you do something towards abolishing the practice by reporting suspicious cases to the police?" he was asked.

"Well, for several reasons," was the reply. "In the first place the most essential thing and the hardest to get is the proof. Very often we find unmistakable evidence, but no proof against anyone. Then we cannot well report such cases without betraying professional confidence, and last, but not least, we do not want to subject the victim and family to the shame and humiliation that would be entailed by an oftentimes futile exposure."

The case against the House woman will come up tomorrow morning before Judge Sanders.

POOR OLIVER!

Showed Contempt For the Mason Court

By Refusing to Pay Attorney's Fee and Alimony as Ordered.

Oliver Allard is having more trouble over the divorce suit recently filed at Metropolis against him by his wife.

By an order of the court he was required to pay an attorney's fee of $250 and $40 alimony, which he has not done. Yesterday he was arrested, taken to Metropolis and a ruling of the court made that he settle up today. It is said that he has been on a spree for several days past and did not make the settlement through obstinacy pure and simple. If he does not settle today he will be committed to jail for contempt of court.

It was reported this afternoon that Allard would have to go to jail. His estate is said to be in a deplorable condition, and quite a lot of his property may have to be sold to meet his heavy obligations.

IN SHACKLES.

Lee Harris Will Escape No More.

Lee Harris, colored, will likely not escape from the chain gang again soon. He escaped not long since for the second time, having thirty-seven days to serve for gaming, and when recaptured Monday had his term increased forty days, making it sixty days in all.

Yesterday afternoon Overseer of the Chain Gang John Francis adorned the recreant prisoner with heavy shackles, with double locks and rivets. He can scarcely walk, and even a Kansas cyclone could hardly carry him away with his weight of iron jewelry.

This is the kind of weather that makes the coal dealer's heart thump for joy. W. H. Parham & Co., whose yards are on the N. C. & St. L. tracks, are rejoicing with the rest, as they are emptying the cars as fast as they come.

The novelty of a steamboat navigating a railroad track was an experience enjoyed once by the writer. It was during the big overflow in the spring of 1871. At that time the Memphis and Little Rock road all the way from Memphis to Forrest City, Ark., was submerged from three to eight feet, and Col. Sam Tate, the president, Mr. A. S. Livermore, the superintendent, Ike Woods, the agent, the writer and quite a number of others board the old "Oil City," and the trip was made from Memphis to Madison, about forty-two miles right over the road bed. We came back to Memphis down the St. Francis and up the Mississippi rivers. When the waters receded the track was washed away for miles in places and lodged among the trees of the forest. Most of the embankment was destroyed more or less and it was several months after the overflow had subsided before trains could move over that portion of the road.

ALLEGED THIEVES.

Henry Smith Locked Up This Forenoon.

Charged With Stealing $600 From His Dying Son, if Reports Are True.

Henry Smith, a middle aged colored man of 1235 Clay street, is a mean man and an ungrateful father, if the charges preferred against him this forenoon are true. Relatives of James Smith, a colored barber of the same address, who has been down from consumption for the past year, today reported to Marshal Collins that Smith had been robbed of $600. Officer Jones and Lockup Keeper Kelley were sent out, and Officer Jones soon had Henry Smith, father of the sick man, under arrest.

Henry Smith's wife died sometime ago, leaving $1500 life insurance. $600 of this dying barber continually kept in his sock. He is subject to fainting spells, and Sunday night was attacked and his mother thought he was dying and ran out for help, leaving Henry Smith with her unconscious son. It is supposed that he then took the money.

It was reported to relatives this morning that Smith, Sr., was spending money freely and the sick man, upon being questioned, found the money that was in his sock missing.

Marshal Collins and Officer Jones ascertained that Smith had given $250 to Harrison Hobbs Tuesday to keep for him and the latter was at the city hall this afternoon, and said that he had given it back to Smith yesterday. The officers then learned where he had last placed the money, and Officer Jones was sent after it. The other $175 has been spent.

Smith was locked up and a warrant will be sworn out against him charging him with grand larceny.

Officer Jones found $400 of the money at Potter's saloon, where Smith had left it for safe keeping.

Riley Gay, colored, was arrested this afternoon by Officer Frank Eaker on a charge of house breaking.

A night or two since somebody broke into Attorney Dave Cross' room over Mr. C. K. Wheeler's office on Legal Row and stole a suit of underwear, some shirts, collars, etc., belonging to "Jack" Randolph.

When Gay was arrested this afternoon the stolen underwear was discovered on him, but the other stolen articles have not been found. He claims that he bought them from a boy whose name he doesn't know.

Don't forget the "Poverty School,"

Vocal Solo—Mrs. D. I. Lewis.

Instrumental Solo—Mr. Chandler.

Vocal Solo—Mr. F. Ashton.

Vocal Solo—Mrs. Culley.
